The copper coffee tumbler

I remember carrying my copper coffee tumbler to the kitchen each morning. It had a rolled rim and a dent near its base. My mother would pour coffee into it and I would sit by the doorway. That tumbler is the object I remember from home.

The wooden ruler at school

At school I had a wooden ruler. I used it to draw straight lines in my notebook. Its edge had small pencil marks. I kept it in my school bag and used it for years.

I remember those two objects clearly.
